DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS
By Joseph M. Sanderson,
For Publishing by Subscription,
A Biography of the Signers
OF THE
Declaration of Independence,
Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no ill or ble prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontis piece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

From a London paper.

THE BANQUET,

In three cantos, is a poem likely to attract the curiosity of readers of taste, both from its subject, which is that of good eating, and from its beauty, both of decoration and of verse. The idea is much from the Gastronomia of Bercheaux—a work which has been very popular in France. The following will give our readers a favorable idea of the execution. In ridicule of the vulgar practice of a newly rich man, tormenting his guests at table, he says:

Rather no sound e'er pass your lips again,
Than stun your guests in trite and hacknied strain:
"How I rejoice my worthy friends to see!
Just as at home, pray, gentlemen, make free:
Do me the favor—dip in that ragout—
My grandmother's recipe—completely new!
These peas, Sir John, may I request your plate—
Though I protest they're wholly out of date;
So is the asparagus, much hurt I fear—
There's nothing to be had this time of year.
How is the ven'son? roasted as you like?
Good Doctor stick your fork into that pike.
I'm sure I'm quite asham'd to give you trouble; [ble!
Sir William, when at home you eat the dou-
My dearest Lady D—, a bit of chicken?
That's a mere bone the Bishop there is picking. [pains—
My love, your neighbors! why you take no
Do help Lord ——to a little brains.
By the east winds how every thing is dried—
I wish I knew what better to provide:
But when you honor me again, my friends,
I vow I'll do my best to make amends."

CORPORATION GIN.

Mr. Spooner—As some of your many readers may not, unto this hour, have heard of this delectable and highly useful liquor, being classed under the up-town nomenclature, we will, to inform them in this particular, and to aid them in their promenades through the purlieus of Bancker-street and Mortie's alley, give them the following incident and dialogue:

A day or two ago, Miss Lucinda Caroline Ann, and Miss Maria Emeline, came, in true Amazonian style and costume, thundering from their residence in Bancker street, presented themselves before the Magistrates at the Police Office, each insisting to be heard first.

Miss Lucinda Caroline Ann opened the case, by directing the attention of the magistrate to a hideous black eye, or, as she expressed it, one of her peepers placed in mourning, by Miss Maria Emeline, whom she insisted should be immediately put in the penitentiary for the assault.

Magistrate. What say you, Miss Maria Emeline to this charge. Did you knock her down or not?

Miss Maria Emeline. I'll tell your honor all about it. Yesterday she came out of the penitentiary, and as soon as she got home, she began sky-larking, and got drunk. I took pity on her—got her out of the street, and let her sleep herself sober. As soon as she awoke she called for rum—the devil a drop would I give her; but told her it was fitter she should take plenty of Corporation Gin; on which she drawed off and gave me a clue in the face.

Miss Lucinda Caroline Ann. You struck me first. Every one knows that I am quite as a lamb. What if I have been in the penitentiary? None of your business. I was not a court prisoner as you were. I was only sent there by the police—the justice knows all about that.

Miss Maria Emeline. Well, sir, as I said, as soon as I telled her to take corporation gin, she gave me a clue; then I mauled her, and shut up one of her oglers. I had a right to do so, Mr. Justice, when she struck me first.

Magistrate. Pray, what is Corporation Gin?

Both at once. Pump water, sir.

Miss Lucinda Caroline Ann. Yes, sir, pump water—that's the stuff she wanted me to take on my poor weak stomach, after being six months in the penitentiary.

True humor must consist in a pleasantry derived from nature; in vivacity and mirth, without affectation, bounded by truth, and supported by good sense.

A man being asked by a friend, why he did not oftener attend public worship, said, his neighbor snored so intolerably that he could not sleep.

A physician observed to a clock-maker, whose work needed mending, that if he "was to make such errors in practice, it would be attended with the loss of all his patients." The man drily replied, "The sun discovers my faults—the earth hides yours."

ALEXANDRIA
WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20.

HEALTH OF THE CITIES.

In New-York, those citizens who had removed from the infected district, were permitted to return after the 16th inst. and most of the public officers moved to their former places on that day.

In Baltimore, the Board of Health recommend further delay in returning. They remark that the great transition in the weather, while it may have extinguished the source of the disease, has operated fatally to the sick. The Board believe that in three or four days the citizens may return with safety.

In Charleston, there appeared to have been no mitigation of the progress of the disease, at the last dates.

In Savannah, the same.

THEATRICAL.

The Petersburg Intelligencer informs that the Theatre was to open there, under the management of Mr. Caldwell, on Wednesday last; and that Mr. C. intends to open the Theatre at Washington on the 1st of December.

Mr Secretary ADAMS, and family, returned to this city on Saturday, from a visit to their friends in Massachusetts. [Nat Int.

We are informed the Military Expedition on the Missouri, under Col. Atkinson, will meet the views of the government, and be established for the winter at Council Bluffs, by the 26th of this month.

After leaving a detachment of the 5th Infantry at Fort Armstrong, and a competent force at Prairie du Chien, Col. Leavenworth went up the Mississippi on the 8th, and arrived at the mouth of St. Peters, near the Falls of St. Anthony, on the 24th of August, with the remainder of his regiment, where he has established his head quarters; having made all his movements and executed his orders with a promptness and efficacy answering the highest expectations of those best acquainted with his military character.

All the five dollar notes of the Bank of the United States and its branches are now received and redeemed with specie, not only at the mother bank, but at each of the offices of discount and deposit, without regard to the place where, on the face of the notes, they are promised to be paid. Official notification to this effect is published in this number of our paper. [Franklin Gaz.

We perceive from the Dutchess Observer, that the New-York mail for Poughkeepsie, was last Tuesday lost overboard, in attempting to throw it from the steam-boat Paragon, into one of her small boats, which was to take it ashore, and was not found until next morning, when it was discovered on the sand. When taken up, the letters and newspapers were materially injured. [N. Y. E. P.

EXECUTION.

We understand that George Brown, who was, at the last sitting of the Circuit Court of the United States, convicted of having murdered John Lewis, on the high seas, is to be executed on board of the U. S. sloop of war Cyane, now at the navy yard—the Secretary of the Navy having been applied to by the Marshal of the District for a ship of war for that purpose, has designated the Cyane. The execution, according to the sentence of the Court, must take place between the hours of one and three o'clock, on Friday the 22d of this month. We also understand it will be carried into effect on the East River, nearly opposite to Brooklyn Heights. The prisoner will be escorted from Bridewell, at about 12 o'clock by a guard of Marines. —— [N. Y. Nat. Adv.

It has given us great pleasure to hear, that the trustees of the University of Transylvania, have unanimously elected Granville Sharp Pattison, Esq. of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, &c. to the Professorship of Anatomy in that Institution. The uncommon liberality manifested by our countrymen towards this distinguished stranger will, we hope, induce him to remain permanently among us. This appointment cannot but gratify his feelings, for we are assured that it was altogether unsolicited on his part.

Phil. pap.

From the Cherry Valley, (N. Y.) Gaz Oct. 12.

The Rev. Synod of Albany convened in this village on Wednesday last, and was opened by the Rev. Mr. Stansbury, of Albany, by sermon, from Ephesians 2d, 12th.—On calling the members, nearly sixty including elders, appeared and took their seats. After hearing the annual reports from the different Presbyteries, they held a free conversation on the general state of religion within their bounds, and many gentlemen gave relations which were truly interesting. On Thursday, an interesting debate took place on the subject of patronizing the African school, in the city of New-York. The object of this school is to educate men of color as missionaries, which may be sent to the southern states, to the West India Islands, or to Africa. All approved of the design of the school, but it is thought by many that the plan on which it had been founded, required alteration. The consideration of the subject was eventually postponed until the next meeting of the Synod. Much talent was elicited in this debate, and the whole proceedings of this learned and reverend body were conducted in a dignified and interesting manner.

The weather in this town for three or four days last week was exceedingly warm for the season—the thermometer rose on Wednesday and Thursday to 80 degrees in the shade.

ROBBERY.

We understand by a gentleman coming from the Eastward, that Mr. Millard Gilmore, son of Major Rufus Gilmore, of Union, Me. having been absent from home for considerable time, was at Belfast on Thursday last, where he mentioned to his landlord, that he had money with him, and shewed several pieces of gold coin.—Several persons were present. He left Belfast that afternoon intending to go to Union. A woman passing on the road to Belmont, about seven miles from Belfast, the sun being about 1½ hour high—on the next morning heard groans, and looking over a fence, perceived Mr. Gillmore extended on the ground. To persons who came to his relief, he intimated that he wished to write—he was then speechless. A slate and pencil were furnished and he wrote, that he had been robbed the evening preceding by two men. His pocket-book was found near the place, open and empty. Mr. Gilmore is dangerously wounded. There is a large wound upon the forehead and two upon the back of the head and the mark of a severe blow upon the arm

Woodbury, (N. J.) Oct. 15.

An important trial came on last Saturday, before the honorable Judge Russell, one of the justices of the Supreme Court of this county, between a gentleman from Delaware, and a colored woman, together with a numerous family, whom he claimed as runaway slaves. The result was, the principal seeing what a turn the trial was taking, decamped time enough to save his distance, as he was closely pursued by the constable.—However, four of his colleagues who were not quite as active, were safely lodged in jail. We forbear saying any more at present, as a report of the trial will shortly appear.

Our cotton market (says a Charleston paper) has opened under somewhat better auspices than had been anticipated from the gloomy accounts we have been in the habit of receiving from Europe for some time back. A handsome lot of the new crop, the first that has been in market, was purchased, we understand, by a mercantile house in this place, at 14 cents, on Thursday last; and from the increased demand for American cottons in England, we hope prices will continue to improve with us. The ravages from the rot, we are happy to learn, have become much less destructive in the upper districts.

MAINE CONVENTION.

A meeting of the Convention of the District of Maine assembled at Portland on Monday, Oct. 11. Mr. King opened the meeting with a few observations, when the honorable Mr. Cony, of Augusta, was appointed Chairman. A committee was appointed to ascertain the number present, and there were 274 members returned. Prayers were offered, and an adjournment took place until 3 o'clock. The Convention again met, and, on motion of Mr. Whitman, proceeded to the choice of a president—240 votes were given, of which the Hon. Wm. King had 230, and was chosen. After two ballotings, R. C. Vose had 166 votes, and appointed secretary. Committees were then chosen to draft rules for their regulation, to apply to Congress for admission into the Union as a separate and independent state, and to report a constitution of government for the new state.

Captain Lewis, of the ship Neutrality, arrived at Portland, was plundered on the 6th of August, in lat. 14, 12, N. lon. 25, 57, W. by a piratical ship and schooner under French colors, who sent their boats on board, full of men, armed with cutlasses. They robbed the ship of all her stores, part of her cargo of wine, the clothing of all on board, not even leaving them a change of dress, and wounded two of the crew. Captain Lewis says, "the best information I could get was, that she was from Buenos Ayres; the ship was a prize which they had manned. The captain I think was an American, who, although pretending he could not speak English, could nevertheless read English very well. Her crew consisted of Spaniards, Portugueze, Americans, and English. One of them was recognized by one of my people to be Webster Stevens, of Kennebunk. They treated us in the most outrageous manner, sparing nothing but our lives—and I think they did that with regret." —— [Ibid.

RIOT AND MURDER.

On Friday last two soldiers of the United States army belonging to the cantonment in Pittsfield, were committed to jail in Lenox for the murder of Samuel Howk, a black man.

The particulars of this riot as they were related to us, are as follows:—On Thursday evening last, between the hours of 10 and 12, two men, of low character, armed themselves with clubs and swords, for the purpose of forcing from a house of ill fame, in the vicinity of Pittsfield, two or three solders, who, it seems were then the occupants; on entering it, a battle ensued;—the soldiers proved victorious, and finally drove the assailants out. The fellows fled, and the soldiers pursued them, as they supposed, into a house where a collection of black people were dancing—the soldiers demanded the men—they were told the men were not in the house—disbelieving this assertion, they fell furiously upon the negroes, but were eventually driven from the house; not, however, until one of the soldiers had buried his bayonet in the body of the above named Howk, who, though mortally wounded, followed them several feet from the door.

The soldiers soon returned with a number of their comrades, when a most desperate and bloody rencontre again ensued—one soldier lost his nose from a blow with a red hot andiron, others were severely injured—the negroes, some of them were badly wounded. The door steps and door were literally hacked to pieces, and covered with blood—the negroes were, male and female, all driven into the street, except Howk, who threw himself into the cellar, where he lay quiet, until the house was empty. The riot was not quelled until a great number of citizens and civil officers interposed. Howk lived long enough to identify the soldier who stabbed him—he died on Friday morning. We understand the verdict of the jury of inquest was, wilful murder.

Such are the particulars of this affair, as they were related to us, which, from the authority, we presume are correct.

FROM FRANCE—POLITICAL.

Extract of a letter (dated 18th August) from an American gentleman now in France, to his friend in Boston.

"In this country we have fine weather, the prospect of a good harvest, and the certainty I think that the liberty of the people, for a time at least, will prevail. The despotic governments around us are alarmed at the march of public opinion in France. They tremble, and with reason, for it is scarcely possible that the liberty of the press can exist in so powerful a country as this without opening the eyes of those who border on them. The ancient nobility and clergy, especially those who have returned here since the peace, have ever since been making efforts to place the government upon its old footing, nor are they yet disposed to let the people alone. They have had one terrible lesson—and can they want another?

A congress of ministers is about to assemble at Carlsbad—what is intended to be done you know as well as myself.—Several tubs for the whale have been already thrown out. It is said they mean to reduce the armed force of Europe; a very good thing for the people on whose shoulders they stand, and who are sweating under the enormous load of taxes required to support them. But who is to make the beginning? It is about an equal chance that they decide the question by fighting

Whatever may be done elsewhere, be assured that France is fast recovering herself, and that she will soon be called upon to take an important part in the affairs of Europe—The nation, I grant, is naturally fickle, fond of a change; but as some excuse, at least, let it be recollected that they have had every thing to deal with from '92 to the return of the king, and even until the last year, for the country being under military operation could hardly have an opinion.

With regard to America, they earnestly desire here, that the treaty for the purchase of the Floridas may not be ratified, as they suppose such an event would produce a war between the U. States and Spain, and induce the former to take an active part in favor of the Independents."

The following letter from our city treasurer, was written to a gentleman of New-Haven in answer to some enquiries; and conceiving that it may be useful to some portion of our readers, we give it insertion. [Col.

New-York, Sept. 27, 1819.

Sir—I am favored with your letter of 25th inst. requesting information relative to the assize of bread, &c. The mode of estimating this assize is established by an ordinance of the corporation, as follows:—A barrel of flour shall be estimated to produce 4032 ounces of bread, and a profit of 4 dollars 25 cts. shall be allowed to the baker on each barrel as compensation for making; then the value of a barrel of flour being added to the profit, and that sum divided by 12-1-2 cents, and the number 4032 being divided by that quotient, the result will give the number of ounces which a loaf of the price of 12 1-2 cents must weigh. For example, the value of a barrel of flour is	D6 25

Add to this the baker's profit,	4 25
	10 50

Divide D10 50 by 12 1 2 cents. } 12 1-2)1050(84

Divide 4032 by by 84. 84)4032(48

Quotient 48 ounces, being wt of the loaf.

The penalties for a non-compliance are a forfeiture of the bread, and a fine of ten cts. for each loaf—provided the weight be ascertained within eight hours after baking.

It may not be irrelative to observe, that our bakers are required to have their loaves marked with the initial letters of their names respectively, with a like penalty of ten cents a loaf for non compliance.

It will be observed that our assize is always estimated on the market price of New-York flour.—Very respectfully, I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN FLEMING, City Treasurer.

On the 7th inst a frigate of the royal marine sailed from Naples, having on board the body of Charles IV late King of Spain—This frigate is bound to Gaieta, to take on board the mortal remains of the Queen Maria Louisa, of Spain. She will then proceed to Alicant, from whence the bodies will be conveyed to the Royal Cemetery of the Escurial.

The wolves begin again to exercise their ferocity in the well wooded environs of the town of Auxonne. In the night of the 23d, two of these carnivorous animals attacked a little boy at Villiers-les-pots, and another at Tilleny, who were watching their master's horses in the pastures of these communes. The former of these children, who was sleeping, rolled up in his cloak, was dragged about the distance of 200 paces; but, in consequence of the cries of his comrades, who were also watching horses, he escaped with only a slight wound. The other child, while sleeping in the midst of five or six other children, was seized by a she wolf, and dragged 100 yards, nor did she let him go until she found herself attacked by dogs and men. The child was severely wounded.

A CURE FOR BURNS AND SCALDS.

Reflections on Burns, and their treatment, by Mrs Hannah Barnard, of Hudson, to one of the Editors, Dr. Mitchell, dated 10th mo. 6, 1818.

I take the liberty of stating to thee a discovery I accidentally made, about 13 years ago; in which natural philosophy had little or no agency, (whatever degree of it I might flatter myself with having previously acquired) but by enabling me afterwards, to trace back to the cause, from the unexpected and surprising effect! I had burned the back of my thumb near the hand, a space perhaps less than the size of a dollar; which was, nevertheless, sufficient "to tie down my sore attention," to its smarting for two or three hours while engaged in domestic avocations. At length, merely because I knew not what to do with it, I applied a plaster, compounded of Burgundy pitch, beeswax and a little oil, which I had long kept in the house, as a convenient application to slight wounds, and which I shall take the liberty hereafter more particularly to specify; I then went on with my work, and did not think of my burn again till about five hours after, when the singular circumstance of such complete relief excited immediate investigation of the cause, which appeared to be first:—The cause of the pain or smarting was the component parts of the natural covering, the skin, was so far decomposed or weakened, by the action of fire, as to render it incapable of oxygen to that part, without suffering a continued tendency to further dissolution. Secondly, that the external application of a complete non-conductor gave the part immediate rest; and afforded an opportunity for nature to repair the breach; and further, that by thus excluding the brisk action of oxygen, every tendency to inflammation from without was fully excluded.

LAKE AND RIVER ST. CLAIR.

From the New-York Evening Post.

Letter from an American traveller now on a tour to Missouri, &c.

DEAR SIR:—Detroit, you know, is an old city and not of rapid growth; yet some improvements have taken place there since the war; among which are a court house lately built by the government, a spacious Catholic church, and several new stores. These, with the hospitality and polished manners of the families of governor Cass and general Macomb, have added considerably to its attractions.

You must now imagine yourself on board, and, with the addition of a fine breeze to our steam, pass with me up the lake and river St. Clair, and I am confident you will be enraptured with the beauty of the surrounding scenery. Much as the towering heights of the Hudson, and the verdant banks of the Connecticut, have been admired, and as much as you have heard of the green rolling hills of the Ohio, and the gentle slope of the shores of the St. Lawrence, yet even these scenes fall far short of the charming prairies of St. Clair; and I may venture to say that neither the warmest imagination of the poet, nor the most glowing tints of the painter, can do them justice. A habitation now and then seen, on banks as level as your floor, enamelled with wild flowers and ever green grass rich beyond conception. The eye can scarcely measure those beautiful lawns. which only are interrupted by groves, that rise like islands to cheer the navigator, and give the eye repose. Near their delightful shade, where the ivy winds round the sugar maple, and the weeping elm sighs to the breeze, extensive droves of cattle feed on pasture on which the foot of man has seldom trod. If ever there was a time to despise the bustle of a crowded city, and become enamored of a pastoral life, it is in the midst of scenes like these—where the silent and solitary cabin seems to invite the traveller to the abode of peace and primitive innocence.

We have some reason to believe that these prairies were once only an arm of Huron, and Huron itself an offspring of the ocean. Its south shore, from fort Gratiot to lake Michigan, has every mark of the sea shore of Long Island and New Jersey. There was a time, perhaps, when the mighty weight of waters sunk this part of the continent below the horizon, and the falls of Niagara* were lost in the great level of the ocean; and the time may come, when those rivers will leave their basins, and find one uninterupted channel to their mother, the Atlantic. Then, the future historian may stand on the Niagara straight, and point to that line on lake Erie which now bounds two mighty empires, and say—"Yonder plain was once the great Lake where hostile ships have fought. and the fate of a nation been decided; and here flows a gentle current where once was a mighty cataract. the wonder of ages and admiration of the world.

The outlet of these waters is certainly an extraordinary phenomenon. Notwithstanding all the rains which fall in the upper valley of the St. Lawrence, and the melting of innumerable snows and ices, still the low and even banks of the St. Clair and Niagara maintain their ascendancy, and the waters are kept, by some invisible hand, within their bounds. The river has, no doubt, lost in the extension and gained in depth: for the mouth of Huron once evidently extended further east, on the Canada side; but the sands have been driven from the shores of the lake by the north wind, and now occupy the shallows to the south.

The changes which the features of our globe have undergone constitute an interesting subject of reflection. God, in his wisdom gives us the earth rich in forest, and filled with game and verdure; man enters the wilderness to destroy the one and exhaust the other, until luxury enervates, and sterility drives him to seek for new forests and richer valleys. In the mean time, an inscrutable Providence, in the process of unnumbered ages, resuscitates what man had laid waste, by raising islands to continents, and reducing continents to islands.—When the cities of Asia and Africa rose in their splendor, the American continent may have only been an Island of the Andes and the Rocky mountains. When the fertile valleys of the Mississippi are exhausted and made barren, the deserts of Africa or Arabia may blossom like the rose. Man has not been sensible of these alterations, for his life is a moment. He cannot trace the sands that are washed from the mountain and have gained the sea shore. But, adieu; you will say to such wild and extravagant speculations, they make us too serious: We must rise in the morning to view the blue waves of the Huron.

* This is the idea of a late tourist.

CHINESE NOTIONS AND SUPERSTITIONS.

On the 15th of May, 1818, a storm suddenly arose at Pekin, which darkened the heavens, and filled the air with sand and dust. The Emperor was excessively alarmed, conceiving it to be a Divine Judgment, and was anxious to know its meaning; he also called on his Ministers of State to endeavor to discover the cause.

In a public document, he reprimanded his Astronommers for not having previously informed him when the hurricane was to take place; they had but three days before stated to him what felicitous stars shed their happy influence around his person, and indicated long life and prosperity; but all this, he says, was the language of flattery, whilst they either could not or would not tell him what evils were about to happen.

Three of these 'wise men' gave their opinion that the cause of the hurricane was the dismissal of the late premier Sung Tajin, and suggested the propriety of recalling him; but his Majesty was far from approving their suggestion, and reproved the advisers for their presumption in meeting with his Royal perogative.

The Mathematical Board also presented their opinion, and intimated that if this kind of hurricane, accompanied by a descent of dust, continued a whole day, it indicated perverse behaviour, and discordant counsels between the sovereign and his ministers: it also indicates great drought and dearness of grain. If the wind blow up the sand, moves the stones, and is accompanied with noise, inundations are to be expected. If the descent of dust continues but an hour, pestilence may be expected in the south west regions, and half the population will be diseased in the south east.

The Gazette expresses his majesty's painful anxiety on account of the long drought, and has sent his sons to fast and pray, and to offer sacrifice to Heaven, to earth, and to the God of wind. The 20th of May was to be a solemn fast—and on the day of sacrifice, the kings, nobles, ministers of state, &c.&c. were all to appear in a peculiar cap and upper garment, indicating deep contrition.

From the above, it appears, that the minds of the highest classes of the community of China are exercised about Sin—and Providence—and Punishment: and that the light which unassisted reasons affords them, is by no means such as to render a Divine Revelation superfluous. [London paper.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.
Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, asmooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. { Rev. Wm Hawley. Washington, Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria, Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria, Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
